Auricular (Ear) Acupuncture: The National Acupuncture Detoxification Association (NADA) Protocol

ACUPUNCTURE

Acupuncture is the world's oldest medical science. Chinese medical science holds that there is an extensive and complex energy system that flows throughout the human body. When this stream flows freely, the body is in balance and healthy. Interruptions and blockages in this normally free-flowing energy stream cause stagnation, illness, disease, and discomfort. Simply stated, acupuncture is a technique that helps get the energy flowing freely and restore balance to the body. In terms of modern medicine, acupuncture creates healing changes in the various function systems of the body.

AURICULAR (EAR) ACUPUNCTURE: The NADA Protocol

Auricular acupuncture is based on the theory that there are points for the entire body mapped out on the ear's surface. NADA, an educational not-for-profit corporation, developed a standardized ear-needling technique to enhance behavioral health and wellness; this protocol uses five points on each ear:

The five points used in Acudetox treatment were chosen based upon Oriental medical theory and clinician indication, as well as lower electrical resistance and pain sensitivity. All of the five points serve to balance the body's energy and assist the body's healing processes. Together, the combined effect of the five-point protocol is, as referred to in Oriental medicine, a yin "tonification" (preventative), restoring the calm inner qualities akin to serenity.

In general, needling the Sympathetic and Shen Men points produces calming, relaxing and centering effects. The other three points, Kidney, Liver and Lung, correspond to yin organ systems in Oriental medicine. The yin organs are seen as internal, nourishing, nurturing, restorative, and supportive. They store the vital substances such as energy and essence. In modern Western Medicine, the kidney, liver, and lungs (organs of elimination) are related to detoxification and cleansing.
